Mentone Flying Club Newsletter

March 2010

Hey, we finally made it to spring! That's a great feeling right? Time to shake out the birds nests "Clear Prop" and go. It's also a good time for a little hanger talking and tinkering as well. Lot's of dust has settled inside and out. We have the pancake and sausage breakfast coming up in June and we all know that means wash and wax day is near as well. I guess what I'm hinting around about is it's a good time to start a Saturday morn off with a satisfying breakfast at Ugaldes, followed by some quality time freshening up our hangers, tossing some of the accumulated stuff, dusting out the windows and maybe even pre-scrub a plane belly to get ready.

One thing Matt Straeter and I have noticed in our search for records is that we have some pretty old records that are stored in various places in the hangers. We're not required to keep many of these and come wash and wax day a few of us will be purging some of the old paperwork.

Some of the members in the club may have interest in some of the info and to be quite honest, it's kind of fun going through some of it. As one club member who has only been around 6-7 years, I've ran across some stuff relating to people in the club I've heard about but never met. But once I've read through it I'm fine with never seeing it again. The reason I'm talking about this now is to give the membership time to do any investigating they'd like and if there's stuff you'd like to keep, let us know before wash and wax day. Of course we're keeping the membership records and things like that but there are numerous papers that have little or no current value that are clogging up our files.

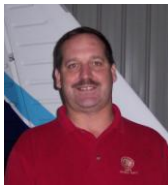

You are a member of a great club and part owner of some very expensive assets, so let's get involved and get our hands dirty and pitch in. Also there are several new members, so let's get to know the people that are flying our planes, and that go both ways. Lets face it, there are some of you that if I seen you pulling a plane out of "my" hanger, I'll find out who you are so let your faces be seen once in awhile, either at a meeting, breakfast, or just hanging at the hanger. Let's continue to make the Mentone Flying Club a better club for future members.

MFC Secretary

At the March meeting, three new Owner Members were voted in and are already flying. Welcome aboard to Clayton Folk, Verne Yoder, and Michael White.

Come join us as we soar ever higher. The next meeting of the Mentone Flying Club will be, Friday April 16th at 7:00 p.m. at the Rochester airport.
